About me

I am a student studying in the third year of Digital Technology Design at National Taipei University of Education. My expertise includes App and Web's UI design, front-end development, multi-media design. I have a huge passion for design and focus on the design process, so designing product with better user experience is my best enthusiasm. I like to learn more about the trend of digital products, and be active to attend lectures and participate in workshops, that make me have more insights. I love to exchange ideas with people, and express myself in public, that train my expression ability much more clearly and logically. At last, I will never stop enriching my professional skills, and I hope that I can enjoy my everyday life!
